COUNCIL BUSINESS

18. Reconsideration of the Employer-Employee Relations Resolution

City Attorney Michael Colantuono presented this item. He reviewed the past actions surrounding the adoption of this resolution on April 28, 2014. He said this resolution is being reconsidered tonight because the attorney for the Auburn Police Officers Association made a written request to reconsider the item to allow himself and his clients an opportunity to address the item.

Sean Howell, Mastagni Law Firm, representing Auburn Police Officers Association and well as the Auburn Public Safety Association (Dispatchers), said the intention of the Employer-Employee Relations Policy is to improve employer employee relations. He said the revisions to the policy do not support this goal. He spoke about the transparency in bargaining provision. He said this should be treated as a ground rule decided at the bargaining table with each unit. He spoke about determining confidentiality in bargaining. He said his labor unit is willing to provide audio and video for every meeting in the next round of bargaining to provide "real transparency".

Aaron Donato, Mastagni Law Firm, representing the Auburn Public Safety Association (Dispatchers), said this type of ground rule (transparency in bargaining) included in an Employer-Employee Relations Policy is not standard. He said it is something that is discussed at the bargaining table. He spoke about "true transparency" by providing video and audio of all the discussions. He said the policy as written would have overwhelming "chilling effect" on the discussion.

Michael Colantuono addressed concerns brought up by public comment.

Council Member Hanley asked what local government in California is using a webcam approach in their negotiations.

Sean Howell said he is unaware of any government using the proposal he recommended tonight (audio/video).

Council Member Kirby confirmed that the city has the authority to establish the transparency in bargaining rule if desired. He asked about other cities in California using a transparency in bargaining policy.

Mayor Powers addressed the concerns over "posturing" with the transparency in bargaining provision.

Michael Colantuono addressed the council's questions and spoke about "the good faith bargaining" required of both parties under the Myers-Milius-Brown Act.

Council Member Nesbitt said the intent behind the provision isn't just so the public can see the initial proposal, but so all members of the bargaining unit can see it as well and the bargaining unit can be sure their proposal has been communicated to the City Council.

Council Member Holmes said he feels the transparency in bargaining should at least be tried to see how it works for everyone involved.

Council Member Kirby said he is taking the advice of the City Attorney that this provision is something the city has the right to adopt. He said while he thinks this provision is the right thing to do in the long run, the timing now is not good because there is opposition from two units and the public doesn't have a good understanding of the policy.

Council Member Hanley said Auburn should not be a follower in reform, but a leader. He said there is no logic to the idea that the policy of transparency would lead to more posturing than a live broadcast of negotiations. He said the Council has to do the best they can, then the citizens get the final judgment. He said he would like to know the pros and cons of publicly providing all the proposals during negotiations.

Council Member Nesbitt said it doesn't matter what other cities use this type of transparency in bargaining policy; it's time for Auburn to be a leader. He said it makes sense to the Council, the bargaining unit and the residents of Auburn.

Aaron Donato, Mastagni Law Firm, said being a leader in the community is not only a responsibility to the citizenry, but also to the employees. He said the unions are offering full transparency with a video/audio recording of each negotiation discussion.

By consensus of the Council; no action was taken.

19. Proposal to Amend the Fee Schedule for Planning Applications

Senior Planner Reg Murray presented this item. He said this is a follow up to a continued item from April 14, 2014. He said the planning application fees were last updated 22 years ago, in 1992. He reviewed hard costs, legal costs and staffing costs incurred with planning applications.

Council member questions followed regarding (1) increased fee impact on economic growth, (2) percentage of costs covered under current fees, (3) design review permits, (4) recovering staff costs, and (5) proposed "at-cost" fees.

Council Member comments followed regarding (1) collection of taxes for services, (2) supporting improvements in the community, (3) positive impact of having low fees, (4) reputation of low costs and ease of working with staff, (5) infill community, and (6) collecting hard costs.

By consensus of the Council; no action was taken.

REPORTS

20. City Council Committee Reports

Council Member Hanley reported on Placer County Flood Control District proposed budget and the per capita assessment increase of 10%. He said he has asked Public Works Director Bernie Schroeder to work with the flood district to see if there are any benefits of membership to Auburn. He also reported on SACOG. He addressed the direction of SACOG, stating it may not always be in Auburn best interest. He said they can vote to support legislation on an emergency basis without notifying the entire board.

Council Member Holmes said he supports leaving the flood control district and it should be looked at. He reported on SEDCorp and said he prepared a document which he provided to the Council. He reported he will be attending CA League of Cities policy committees on the 19th and 20th in Sacramento.
